The Bugatti Veyron is the most powerful and fastest production car in the world. It has set two production car world speed records, most recently this year for open-top cars with the Bugatti Veyron Grand Sport Vitesse.

To date both coupés, the Veyron 16.4 and the Super Sport, which were limited to 300 units, are sold out, and out of the 150 roadster versions currently in the portfolio, the Grand Sport and the Grand Sport Vitesse, only a few more than 50 cars are still available.

Britain's biggest car magazine, Top Gear has international editions in 32 countries reaching a combined global audience of 9.2 million readers worldwide, and is produced from the same offices as the internationally renowned TV show.
